

RESERVE OFFICER TAKES OWN LIFE AT BIGLERVILLE

Lt. George D. Walter, 44, Boas street, Harrisburg, died instantly at 9:25 o'clock this morning at the home of his brother, Blaine G. Walter, Biglerville. The death was a suicide, Dr. C. G. Crist, county coroner, said, with Lieutenant Walter shooting himself in the left temple with a .38 calibre revolver owned by Blaine Walter, who is constable in Biglerville.

The deceased has been a first lieutenant on active duty at Kelly Field, Texas, during the last two months. He was an instructor in electricity. Because of ill health he was placed on inactive reserve recently and arrived at Biglerville a few days ago to spend some time with his brother and sister-in-law.

This morning he rose and ate breakfast with the family and then went upstairs. The family heard a shot and rushed upstairs to find the body.

According to Corporal Earl Moore, of the state police, who investigated, Lieutenant Walter had gone to the room of his brother, Blaine Walter, and had removed the revolver from a holster hanging in the closet. He had turned around, away from the closet, facing a dresser mirror when he fired the shot. The body fell against a bedside stand and was in a sitting position when found.

There were no notes found. Despite his ill health, he had seemed in good spirits, the family told police.

Vet of World War I
Lieutenant Walter taught an electrical course at the Camp Curtin high school in Harrisburg for the last 15 years, receiving a leave of absence from the school to join the army early this summer.

About three weeks ago he was given sick leave from the army and on Friday evening his brother brought him to Biglerville for a visit here. He had been ill Friday and Saturday and seemed much better this morning. On Saturday he had gone to a county doctor for treatment.

He served in the Navy during the last World War and was a member of the Penbrook Lutheran church and the Harrisburg lodge of the Masons and the American Legion post there.

Native of Biglerville
A son of the late Harry U. and Almada (Heiges) Walter, he was born in Biglerville, later moving to Harrisburg. Twenty years ago he married Miss Maude Bushey, of Harrisburg, who survives as do two sons, William and James Walter, both at home.

Other survivors include a sister, Mrs. Dora Shank, Gettysburg, and two brothers, Blaine G. Walter, and Captain Frederick K. Walter, Chicago.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

GOP INCREASES LEAD IN COUNTY OVER '42 LISTS

The Republican majority in Adams county climbed to 1,482 during the recent registration period, an increase of 346 over last spring's primary enrollment, while the number of voters in the county dwindled to 16,190, a drop of 1,473 votes.

Those figures were contained in the lists of the number eligible to vote, completed early Saturday afternoon by clerks of the county election commission. Working under Clarence C. Smith, chief clerk, the group spent last week in checking the number eligible for the franchise following the close of registration, Saturday, August 14.

Last year's figures showed there were 8,154 Democrats and 9,290 Republicans in the county. This year the number of Democrats has dropped by 884 to 7,270. The number of Republicans last spring, 9,290, has dropped to 8,752 this year, a decrease of 538.

No Royal Oaks
In only five districts were there increases in the number of voters, with the greatest increase in East Berlin where popular interest in the primaries has been stirred by a vote on the sale of liquor and beer in that community. Last year there were 197 Democrats, 221 Republicans and three no party voters in the eastern county borough. This year the number of Democrats has increased to 215, the number of Republicans to 228 and three no-party voters are again eligible to vote.

Fairfield showed a gain for the Republican party of a few votes while the Republicans also gained two votes in Highland township and 34 votes in Latimore township. The Democratic votes remained the same in those sections.

Three Socialists are recorded for the county, one each in Butler and Franklin townships and York Springs. Four "Independent" voters are registered from York Springs. The Royal Oak party which last year claimed five county voters, this year

In their answer the Shinhams "enter a plea of not guilty" and deny that they "unjustly, wrongfully and unlawfully use and occupy the parcel of land claimed by" the owners of the Elevation orchards.

The answer claims that Shinhams "on December 26, 1941, leased the parcel of land for a period of one year," from Jones and that "on December 26, 1942, the lease was renewed for another year."

Two witnesses in the Redding case who were subpoenaed Saturday failed to appear in court this morning and were arrested on process warrants. BOARD HERE IS AWAITING WORD ON DADS' DRAFT

Selective service board No. 2 today was awaiting orders from the state to begin reclassifying pre-Pearl Harbor fathers who do not fall in any of the draft-deferment groups set up by regulations of the War Manpower Commission.

The board completed sending of dependency questionnaires to all fathers some months ago when it reclassified fathers with children conceived after Pearl Harbor and husbands in childless families. The same questionnaires will be used as the basis for determining which fathers are to be reclassified under the present regulations.

Instructions received by Maryland boards Saturday to put in "1-A" all fathers who do not hold "draft-proof" jobs have not been duplicated in Pennsylvania so far, board officials said, although it was expected some such regulations will be received soon.

The recent regulations making occupation and not family status the principal yardstick for determining induction has not increased here the number of fathers who are seeking war plant jobs, the board said. So far as the board has not received a single notification from any of the fathers on its list that he has changed his occupation in order to escape possible induction.

Some Eager To Go

Fathers have until September 15 to apply for other jobs if they are working in non-deferrable occupations, and it is expected that a few will go into war jobs at the request of WMC. Most of the men who would change were believed to have already switched their occupations in response to previous orders of the WMC to seek war jobs.

Some fathers were reported as eager to "get into the war" with a few asking the board to call them earlier than their order number when the draft of fathers begins.

Whether any fathers will be called by the local board in October, first month in which pre-Pearl Harbor fathers can be inducted, could not be determined today, with the board saying that the number called up in September and the number of youths becoming 18 between now and the middle of September will be determining factors.

Germanans Quit Kharkov; Huge Jap Air Base Falling; Salerno, Italy, In Flames

New Guinea Base Pasted By Big Guns

(By The Associated Press)

Allied siege guns blasted the Japanese stronghold at Salamaua in New Guinea today as enemy troops retreated deeper into their last circle of defenses, and dispatches from Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters said the fall of the big air base appeared almost within sight.

From newly captured ridge positions, American and Australian gunners turned their fire on the enemy at a range of only two miles, and Allied troops moved up all along the semi-circular front.

Meanwhile, United Nations military chiefs agreed that the bloodless conquest of Kiska in the Aleutians had placed the Allies on the shortest route to Tokyo.

Jap on the Run

"The Jap is on the run," said Lieut.-Gen. John L. DeWitt, commander of the western defense command.

"The Jap Navy is in hiding, dispersed. The reconquest of Kiska has cleared our shortest highway to the Japanese empire."

Similar expressions broadly hinting that the Allies may be poised to strike heavy blows against Japan came from Vice Admiral Thomas C. Kinkaid, commander in the north Pacific, and Maj. Gen. William O. Butler, commander of the 11th Army Air Force.

"We have completed our northern road to Japan," Admiral Kinkaid said.

"Our chain of air and naval bases will protect our surface vessels and shipping units two-thirds of the way to Tokyo."

Plan Pincer Assault

Gen. Butler declared the way was now open for the operation of a multiple-jawed pincer closing on the enemy in the Pacific.

While Salamaua tottered, American jungle fighters in the Solomons cleaned out a Japanese pocket of resistance on Baanga Isle, seizing field guns with which the enemy had been shelling Munda airfield on nearby New Georgia island.

A Tokyo broadcast, unconfirmed by Allied sources, asserted that Japanese troops defending Kolombangara island, a few miles north of New Georgia, "foiled landing attempts by United States forces at dawn yesterday."

The broadcast said the landing attempt was made by about 15 barges and torpedo boats.

Savage Air Assaults Leave Huge Fires At Three Italian Bases

By RELMAN MORIN

Allied Headquarters in North Africa, Aug. 23 (AP)—The mighty Allied juggernaut rolled over Salerno, another important point in the Italian mainland railroad system, virtually smashing the city in day and night raids and leaving marshalling yards a sea of flame, headquarters announced today.

Salerno is on the coast south of Naples, around which Allied heavy and medium bombers left a trail of ruin in railway centers in raids Friday and Saturday.

The Germans, determined to defend the key points of their lifeline, threw in about 100 fighters to battle Royal Australian marauders and their escort.

Down 114 Enemy Planes

Although today's Allied headquarters communicate said 28 of the enemy fighters were shot down at Salerno, later reports placed the number at 33. Altogether 34 enemy planes were shot down yesterday against a total of five Allied aircraft lost.

In the heavy air fighting of the past four days 114 enemy planes have been downed, it was stated here. The marauder squadrons in their Sunday raid destroyed 31 fighters, topping the 22 shot down by these bombers in the Naples area on Saturday.

While the northwest African forces were slashing at Salerno, British Liberators and Halifaxes from the Middle East bombed Italian rail switching yards Saturday at Crotona, a port on the arch of the Italian boot.

Continue Day And Night Attacks

The British fliers observed explosions and fires, some near a chemical factory, a Cairo announcement said.

Seven Allied aircraft were reported missing from the Saturday night and Sunday raids, two of them from the Middle East force.

British Wellingtons followed up the marauder attacks on Salerno again last night.

For the first time, A-36 Invader Fighters accompanied the marauder squadrons as escort.

The invaders first were officially announced in use after the invasion of Sicily. They have been used mainly as fighter-bombers and have hung up a successful record while hunting in packs against ground objectives.

They were credited officially with destroying two of the 28 enemy planes shot from the sky.

Battle 60 Enemy Fighters

A running battle between the Axis planes and the marauders and invaders lasted 35 minutes after the last bomb had exploded at Salerno and stretched far out to sea.

The bombers met about 60 enemy fighters, fighting them off with heavy defense fire.

Almost as soon as darkness fell large formations of Wellingtons appeared over the same targets and found fires still burning among freight cars and coal piles.

They dumped their 4,000-pound bombs among the tracks, already twisted like jackstraws just north of one of the most important bridges.

In the light of a series of white flares the Wellingtons spotted about 250 freight cars and planted heavy explosives among them. The target area was then hidden for the rest of the night in billowing clouds of white smoke from fires which had been kindled.

Nazis Admit Abandonment Of Huge Base

By WILLIAM S. WHITE

London, Aug. 23 (AP)—The German high command admitted today the loss of Kharkov, their greatest position in all the south of Russia in what appeared to be a general retreat.

The fall of the city was presented by DNB, German news agency, as an evacuation in which Russian pressure had no part. In a broadcast announcing withdrawal from the base, DNB said Kharkov was no longer a "valuable center of traffic and supply" and declared all important installations there had been destroyed by the Nazis before they pulled out.

Kharkov, the great industrial center in the Ukraine, was last captured by the Russians in February and lost by them again in March and has changed hands four times in less than two years.

Major Position

It represented the major Nazi position east of the Dnieper river and has been for the base of a salient from which the Germans could thrust out to menace the Russians anywhere from Moscow to the Caucasus.

Russian broadcasts and reports from the Germans themselves indicated violent fighting west of the city now rising toward perhaps some fateful conclusions. The Nazis were at pains to insist that the withdrawal was orderly.

The Russians have declared that German commanders were so hard-pressed that they were throwing new formations into the battleline at the moment of their arrival and without rest.

Another Triumph

Kharkov was added to the lengthening list of Russian triumphs—the list including Orel and Belgorod—won not by costly frontal assault but by the same slashing flank attacks which relieved Stalingrad, two Russian armies enveloped Kharkov from north and south.

The German announcement that Kharkov was again in Russian hands was broadcast in the overseas service report but not to Nazis at home. They were told that "there is nothing new."

The German high command later confirmed the loss of Kharkov in a communique broadcast for both domestic and foreign consumption.

THOMAS SEEKS MORE AGENCIES TO SELL BONDS

Establishment of business concerns as sub-agents for banks in Adams county in the sale of war bonds was urged today by county War Finance committee chairman, Edmund W. Thomas.

National authorities as well as local War Finance committee heads are urging that as many issuing agents for bonds be set as possible, Mr. Thomas said. "Every effort must be made to widen the field for sale of the bonds. The more agencies selling bonds and the more conveniently located the agencies, the more bonds that will be sold," he asserted.

"Experience has shown that the sale of bonds by business and industrial concerns not only allows the employee a greater opportunity in that they can buy bonds during non-banking hours, but helps labor-employee relations by making it that much easier for the employee to buy his bonds."

Speed Delivery

"Because the nation is attempting to sell 60,000,000 E bonds, twice as many as were sold during the April drive, it is imperative that every possible establishment be an issuing agency."

"The establishment of additional agencies for the sale of war bonds will also prevent accumulation of bonds at banks and will permit speedier delivery of the bonds to the individual," Mr. Thomas said.

SAFE IN SICILY

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Heyser, Gettysburg R. D., have received word their son, PFC Charles E. Heyser, Jr., is safe in Sicily.

SPECULATION RIFE ON RECALL OF LITVINOFF

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

It would be easy to set a lot of mischievous little hobboblins to dancing by speculation over the mysterious replacement of Maxim Litvinoff as Soviet ambassador to the United States, but at the same time it would be a mistake to brush aside such an important development for fear of examining it.

The very fact that the unexplained shift of Litvinoff has put in motion a storm of speculation not only in the United Nations but in Germany is in itself proof that the event has some peculiar significance. This thought is supported by the circumstance of Litvinoff's transfer coming on the heels of similar action in regard to Ivan Maisky, Russian ambassador in London, who has been called back to Moscow without explanation. These two famous diplomats have been the ranking members of Russia's ambassadorial service.

Allied newspapers and observers, looking at the puzzle from every angle, have found the event disquieting. The Hitlerites, trying to squeeze as much juice out of this turnip as possible, have bragged about a row in the enemy camp.

No Row Among Allies

At the same time the Nazis have made an admission which is worth our earnest consideration. This is that all the Big Three—the United States, Britain and Russia—remain hostile to Nazism.

There is no row in the Allied camp, and the Russians are out to crush Hitlerism. However, the widespread speculation and uneasiness in Britain and this country would seem to point clearly to one thing: There is a lack of complete understanding between the Soviet Union and the western Allies.

Second Front Move

Observers generally seem to feel that one of the most likely explanations of the Russians move is that Moscow is taking this means of expressing resentment at the fact that the Anglo-American Allies haven't yet opened up that second land-front in western Europe. The Reds have been calling persistently for this front for more than a year, and recently the demand has been reiterated frequently.

It's a fair guess that Premier Stalin has resorted to the replacement of his star ambassadors partly as a rebuke to London and Washington. If this is so, it isn't just coincidence that these diplomatic changes come as the Roosevelt-Churchill conference is staged at Quebec.

It strikes me, however, that the thing cuts deeper than the second front. The war is rushing at express-train speed towards the moment when momentous political decisions will have to be made. New forms of government are to take the place of Fascism and Nazism. There will be a realignment of boundaries in Europe and likely in Africa. All the indications are that Russia is going to demand territorial readjustments.

Need For Understanding

This column on numerous occasions has pointed out the probability that the Soviet Union will emerge from this war as the dominant power in Europe, and maybe in the Far East as well. Daily she is emphasizing this likelihood by the power of her drive against the tremendous weight of the Hun armies.

Today Berlin admits the abandonment of Kharkov, one of the vital pivotal bases in the southern wing of the great German battle line. Hitler's whole eastern front is threatened. The Reds are slogging on towards Berlin.

That picture certainly calls for an understanding among the big three. It calls for a political as well as a military agreement. It calls for prompt action.

What more likely than that this is the main reason for Stalin's blunt gesture? He is asking for a tabling of the cards.

Chinese Attack Jap Bombers

Chungking, Aug. 23 (AP)—More than 60 Japanese bombers swarmed over Szechwan province in two waves today, one of which attacked targets in the immediate vicinity of Chungking while the other stabbed at Wanhsien, important Yangtze river trading center 145 miles northeast of this provisional Chinese capital.

Muffled explosions were audible in Chungking but the city itself, which was last bombed on Aug. 31, 1941, was untouched.

Twenty of the enemy bombers wheeled past the capital in the clear sight of watchers in the streets and were challenged at once by Chinese planes.

The alarm lasted two hours in Chungking.

Discover New Break In "Big Inch"

New Hope, Pa., Aug. 23 (AP)—Another break in the "Big Inch" pipe line—the third in Pennsylvania this month—was discovered early today about a mile and a quarter north of here along the Delaware river road.

The leakage was brought under control six hours later by a repair crew which had just completed burning off the oil from a previous break near Doylestown, Pa.

Thousands of gallons of oil flowed over the road into the Delaware river, however. The break, discovered by passing motorists, occurred near a spot where workmen blasted the bed of the river to run the line under the water.

NAZI CHEMICAL PLANT PASTED; OTHER TARGETS

London, Aug. 23 (AP)—British bombers returned to their crushing attacks on Germany last night after an interval of two nights and the Air Ministry announced that the chemical works at Leverkusen, six miles north of Cologne, were the special target.

The German radio said that Dueseldorf in the Rhineland also was attacked and that 11 British fighters and a "number" of bombers were shot down in "random" attacks on other objectives in the western Reich. The Air Ministry described these as intruder patrols over railway targets and airfields.

The Air Ministry said five bombers were lost in the night's activities. Heavy clouds made it difficult to see results, the communicate said.

Blast Freight Yards

Hardly had the night raiders returned than light bombers and fighters sped out by daylight today to resume the assaults.

The night attack ended a lull that had lasted since Thursday night when Mosquitoes struck at Berlin.

Spitfires were out in force during the day and RAF Mitchells attacked the St. Omer freight yards. The Air Ministry said the planes were not challenged.

A Canadian Spitfire wing encountered more than 15 ME-109s over the Gosnay area in northern France. The English leader, Wing Commander J. E. Johnson, shot down an enemy aircraft to become the second highest scoring pilot still serving with the Fighter Command, with 23 victories.

Normandy Raided

The Vichy radio said American planes raided a place in Normandy. Among the formidable squadrons crossing and recrossing the straits of Dover today were many medium bombers identified by coastal residents as Americans.

Enemy raiders scattered bombs in East Anglia and also rumbled over southeast England last night. At least two were shot down. An alarm sounded in London soon after midnight, but no incidents were reported.

Late yesterday Marauder medium bombers of the U. S. Eighth Air Force attacked an enemy airfield at Beaumont Le Roger in occupied France. Escorting Spitfires and the bombers knocked down nine enemy fighters. One bomber and eight Allied fighters were listed as missing.

During Sunday British intruders attacked enemy shipping, airfields, transport and communications.

Would Give War Gear To Soldiers

Pittsburgh, Aug. 23 (AP)—Under a plan proposed by a Pittsburgh businessman, government-owned war manufacturing facilities and war products such as trucks, planes and ships would be given to soldiers at the end of the present war.

C. Fred Sauereisen, an inventor and president of a technical cement company, in asking U. S. Senator James J. Davis to bring the proposal before Congress, suggested that stock in plans now owned wholly by the government be distributed among war veterans trained in the type of production in which the plants could engage.

He suggested that fliers be given airplanes and landing fields to engage in commercial aviation, truckers be given Army trucks so they could enter business, and merchant seamen be given ships "with which to open up new lanes of world trade."

WOMEN R. R. WORKERS

The plans, embracing a 10-point program, were disclosed in a decree issued by the Council of People's Commissars and the Central Committee of the Communist Party applying to the sections of the country which have been freed of Nazi domination. Its sweeping provisions provide for reconstruction of ruined buildings, financial relief for the hard-hit population, rehabilitation of agriculture and the return of evacuated livestock as well as a broad program of education for children.

An Evening Thought

Nothing is more idle than to inquire after happiness, which nature has kindly placed within our reach.—Johnson

Just Folks

By Edgar A. Guest

READING THE FUTURE

I can read the future! When the war is won
Boys will still be graded as their tasks they've done.

Good will still be rated by the product made;
Character be reckoned by the grit displayed.

Card or palm or crystal, this will still be plain:
Merit will be searched for, sometimes long in vain.

I'm no fortune teller, but I can foresee
If the stuff be shoddy, cheap its price will be.

Will the peace bring changes?
Yes, perhaps a few.
Borders may be altered; pacts be made anew.

But in what men call honor, what adorns a name,
What is good and evil will remain the same.

War may batter buildings, level wall and spire,
But no war will alter traits that men admire.

Today's Talk

By George Matthew Adams

ALL THINGS EQUALIZE

Some of us are apt to think that we are left out in the reckoning of the affairs of life as concerns us. The seeming unfavorable look upon the seemingly favored with questioning and often jealous eye. But we never know the circumstances of any life, nor are we able to judge another in any measure of accuracy.

The very people upon whom we look as happy and greatly favored may look upon our humble station with spiritual hunger in their eyes. Like the King and the Peasant, who each wished the place of the other.

We often hear the statement from a person that someone else always gets the "breaks." We all get these so-called "breaks" at some time or other. Even in our individual lives all things equalize in time. Sorrow is offset by a return of happiness, with poignant memories enriching all the acts of our days. Losses are replaced by gains—often finer, and to our greater advantage, than had things turned out as we first wished them.

The hurts of the heart heal, and that heart becomes the stronger—gentler, more considerate and more understanding. Compensations run all through the course of Nature, and if we are wise and alert we can take her lessons to heart and be inspired to take up every problem in its time, solving it with courage and satisfaction.

I appreciate the glorious day in which this talk is being written because of the storm and raging gale that swept this little island yesterday. Every flower has a smile upon its face, every blade of grass is greener, and the mossy paths, so beautiful in their shades of color, seem like patches of rare velvet, strewn purposely for my feet to tread in happiness. There is a purpose behind every act of the Creator.

Now that we are here, to live should be the happiest of privileges. Every interest should be multiplied—every service a joy. There should be something regnant about every task we perform—so as to complete it with pride and satisfaction. The little irritations and inequalities of life then fade into mere trifles, soon to be forgotten.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Enjoyment."

Out Of The Past

From the Files of the Star and Sentinel and
The Gettysburg Times

ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO

"The Standard" is the title of a new weekly newspaper which has made its appearance in this borough. Mr. Bringman, editor. It is printed on a medium sheet, and is very respectable "got up." The number before us is a specimen one. The paper is to be continued in 2 or 3 weeks, if the editor meets with sufficient encouragement.

Died: On Tuesday evening Mrs. Mary Paxton, of this borough, in the 84th year of her age.

On the 14th inst., after a long illness, Mrs. Eliza Rhea, widow of Mr. Crawford Rhea, deceased, of Hamilton township, in the 42nd year of her age.

On the same day, Mr. George Bender, of Mount Joy township, in the 63rd year of his age.

Melancholy Accident: On Monday morning, a young man named Collins, in the employ of Mr. Reinecker, as a stone mason, was engaged with three or four others, in rebuilding the wall of a kitchen at Mr. Butt's, on Marsh Creek and had propped up the roof for this purpose, as they supposed, securely. It, however, gave way and fell upon the workmen, crushing Mr. Collins and causing his death in a few minutes. The others were injured, but not seriously. Mr. Collins was a young man of about 19 years of age; and his parents reside in Mount Joy township.

The Defenders of Baltimore: The surviving defenders of Baltimore intend to celebrate the anniversary of the battle of North Point, September 12th, in the borough of York. The Baltimorean participants in that affair, it is expected, will be generally in attendance, and a town meeting has been called, and a committee appointed to make suitable arrangements for their reception and escort. It will very likely be a brilliant celebration.

SEVENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
Death of Mr. Stevens: On Monday afternoon, at 2 o'clock (the hour fixed for the funeral services of THADDEUS STEVENS), the stores and places of business in this place were closed, the bells tolling from 2 to 3 o'clock. We are glad to say that our Democratic fellow-citizens, with two or three marked and malignant exceptions, promptly united in this tribute of respect. Court was in session, and after the current business had been disposed of, Hon. M. McClean rose and, after referring to Mr. Stevens' former connections with this Bar, his eminent legal abilities, and national reputation, moved that the court adjourn and that an appropriate minute be entered on the court records. Messrs. McConaughy and Wills followed in fitting tribute to the memory of the deceased, when his honor, Judge Fisher, ordered an adjournment of the court and a minute of the proceedings to be entered on the records—preceding the order with a generous and eloquent tribute to Mr. Stevens' eminent legal abilities, and the marked courtesy, frankness, and high sense of honor, which had ever characterized his professional career.

Married—Arendt-Blocher: On the 16th day of June last, by the Rev. E. Breidenbaugh, Mr. Jacob W. Arendt, of Butler township, to Miss Rebecca Blocher, of Cumberland township.

Feeser-Knippel: On the 16th inst., by Rev. J. M. Clemens, Mr. Amos Feeser, of Union township, Adams county, to Miss Sarah C. Knippel, of Carroll county, Maryland.

Martin-Croul: On the 23d inst., by Rev. J. Clemens, J. Martin, of Hagerstown, Maryland, to Miss L. Croul, of Union township, Adams county.

Notice: Letters Testamentary on the Estate of Hon. Thaddeus Stevens, late of Lancaster city, Pennsylvania, having been granted to the undersigned, they hereby give notice to all persons indebted to said estate to call and settle the same, and to those having claims against the same to present them properly authenticated for settlement.

O. G. Dickey,
EDWARD MCPHERSON,

The first named two Executors reside in Lancaster, and the latter in Gettysburg.

Thaddeus Stevens—Funeral Services: (From the Washington Star, Friday), at the capital.—The funeral of Hon. Thaddeus Stevens took place this morning at nine o'clock in the rotunda of the capitol. The body laid in state and the rotunda was open all night in order that the public could have a last view of the departed statesman. A guard of honor, composed of twenty-five Zouaves, remained with the corpse, and an extra force of the capitol police was on duty. From seven until nine last evening a continual stream of visitors were passing through, a large number of whom were colored.

Rev. Dr. Emery read from the 90th Psalm. The sermon was delivered by Rev. Dr. Gray. Rev. Dr. Hamilton offered a fervent prayer.

At 10 o'clock the remains left Washington by a special train for Lancaster, where funeral services were held on Monday afternoon.

Republican County Convention:

The Republican convention met in Agricultural Hall on Monday and was organized by appointing Josiah Benner, Capt. Wm. Jones and Vincent O'Boyle, vice-presidents, and Capt. H. N. Minnigh and G. L. Deardorff, secretaries. The delegates from Gettysburg were Dr. Charles Horner and Wm. R. Eyster.

Col. F. B. Pickens, Peter Shively and Dr. Robert Horner were appointed congressional conferees, with instruction to support the nomination of Hon. John Cessna, of Bedford.

Col. E. G. Fahnestock, Gen. W. W. Stewart, and Col. C. H. Buehler were appointed Senatorial conferees with instructions to support the nomination of Col. Wm. D. Dixon, of Franklin.

Milwaukee was once an Indian village, called by the natives "Mene-waukee," or "good lands."

BELIEVE JAPS UNDER STUDY AT QUEBEC PARLEY

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

Quebec, Aug. 23 (AP)—The belated arrival of Chinese Foreign Minister T. V. Soong at the Quebec war councils suggested today that decisions had been made to build up air squadrons in the eastern bulge of China to bomb enemy life lines in the China sea and the Japanese mainland itself.

Soong flew in from Washington late yesterday, at the request of President Roosevelt. Presidential Secretary Stephen Early emphasized that his discussions with the chief executive and Prime Minister Churchill of Britain "will have to do with the plans—for the war on Japan."

That fact gave support to the idea that Allied strategy perfected here calls for powerful aerial thrusts at the Japanese from bases in eastern China.

To Turn on Japan
Pure logic, and these additional facts, also weighed in favor of an agreement to wreck the enemy supply route in the China sea and give Japan a sample of the destruction already heaped on ports and industrial cities of Germany.

1. President Roosevelt has proclaimed publicly the determination of the Allies to send up aerial armadas from China to scourge the Japanese.

2. China is known to have asked that the bomber force now operating in her eastern zone be increased perhaps 10 times for exactly that purpose.

Vulnerable From West
3. A survey of air transport facilities operating out of India is said to have shown that it would be possible to supply and service three to four times the number of bombers presently in eastern China.

Moreover, the end of the Sicilian campaign, may release additional transport planes for the India-China ferry route.

4. If the war is to be brought to bear on Japan itself, which must be done eventually in any event, she is most vulnerable to attacks from the west, where heavy bombers can make the round trip from China.

Knox Arrives Today
5. The blasting of Japanese shipping out of the China sea would soften the enemy's resistance all around her defense perimeter and help cripple war industries at home.

The China sea route is used not only to supply Burma, the Netherlands East Indies and even more advanced Japanese army outposts, but also to bring back to Japan the raw materials of warfare acquired in these conquered regions.

6. Secretary of the Navy Knox, whose main interest is in the Pacific war theaters, where Navy men for the most part are in command, arrives today on the scene of the Quebec conference.

7. Soong was brought to Quebec for a purpose, and obviously he would not have been invited to participate in discussions with Mr. Roosevelt and Churchill on the next to the last day of the conference if they merely had bad news for him or if any far-reaching decisions on the conduct of the war in the Pacific remained on the agenda.

Holds Courts May Probe State's Acts

Pittsburgh, Aug. 23 (AP)—Judges are powerless to protect the public from fraud, error or illegality if courts must approve the secretary of banking's reports on closed banks without question. Common Pleas Court Judge Ralph H. Smith has declared in an opinion.

The decision came after exceptions taken by the secretary over Judge Smith's appointment of examiners to check accounts of the Pennsylvania Trust Co., the Tarentum Savings & Trust Co., the Pennsylvania Bank & Trust Co., and the People's State Bank of East Pittsburgh, all closed banks.

The secretary in an appeal contended it was "mandatory" for the court to approve the accounts if no depositor protested within 30 days after they were filed.

To accept the secretary's interpretation Judge Smith said would place a "legal blindfold" on the courts, adding that "the cloak of judicial approval" could not be thrown around any branch of government unless the approval was based "on the informed and independent judgment of the court."

The Republican convention met in Agricultural Hall on Monday and was organized by appointing Josiah Benner, Capt. Wm. Jones and Vincent O'Boyle, vice-presidents, and Capt. H. N. Minnigh and G. L. Deardorff, secretaries. The delegates from Gettysburg were Dr. Charles Horner and Wm. R. Eyster.

Col. F. B. Pickens, Peter Shively and Dr. Robert Horner were appointed congressional conferees, with instruction to support the nomination of Hon. John Cessna, of Bedford.

Col. E. G. Fahnestock, Gen. W. W. Stewart, and Col. C. H. Buehler were appointed Senatorial conferees with instructions to support the nomination of Col. Wm. D. Dixon, of Franklin.

So great-grandmother Bohney whacked the animal with a shovel and threw it into the river herself.

SURGERY AT THE FRONT IS SAVING SOLDIERS' LIVES

By DON WHITEHEAD

Allied Headquarters in North Africa, Aug. 23 (AP)—Medical science moved up within range of the guns of the enemy during the Sicilian campaign to perform miracles of surgery which undoubtedly saved many lives.

Among the dusty mountain roads field medics set up tented hospitals—often with their own artillery roaring about their ears and frequently with enemy shells bursting nearby.

It took steady nerves to stand in those shelters and operate on wounded men. Teams of skilled surgeons, however, showed it could be done, and thus a new technique of "front line surgery" was perfected by the U. S. Seventh Army.

Saving More Lives
Army authorities say it worked "at peak efficiency."

This new phase of medical care for battle casualties resulted from a modification of the original casualty evacuation setup. Under the original setup the wounded were transported by ambulance to operating stations five or six miles behind the front, and no matter how carefully or rapidly they were evacuated were subject to a certain degree of shock.

The "front line surgery setup" made it possible for them to receive expert attention within one or two miles of the enemy guns, and the minutes saved resulted in saving a proportionate number of lives.

Surgeons Carry On
A large share of the credit, of course, goes to the first aid men working with the troops in the lines and the litter bearers who brought the wounded out under enemy fire. Much of this evacuation work had to be done at night.

Too much praise, however, cannot be given the surgeons who worked under the most trying conditions in their front line stations.

One day four German planes dived to bomb and strafe a vehicle stalled near one of these units. Clouds of dust and smoke rolled over the operating tent.

When the attack was over, I was among those who rushed over to see what damage had been done to the hospital. We found that shrapnel had sliced holes in the tent, but inside the surgeons were going calmly about their work as though nothing had happened.

Boston Common, the heart of Boston, was once a common cow pasture.

NO EXPLANATION OF LITVINOFF'S SHIFT IS GIVEN

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Quebec, Aug. 23 (AP)—As nearly as it could be accomplished without a forthright official statement, the recall of Maxim Litvinoff as Soviet ambassador to Washington was diverged today from proceedings of the British-American war conference here.

Moscow's purpose in making known at this time that Litvinoff would not return to the United States remained obscure in the absence of any explanation from the Russian capital, but the understanding of American officialdom regarding the incident was made clear by an authority closely associated with the Quebec conference.

Not Official Surprise
His statement was that the replacement of Litvinoff by Andrei A. Gromyko, embassy counselor and charge d'affaires in Washington, was not connected in any way with the conference. The fact that Litvinoff would not go back to Washington had been known to officials in the American capital for weeks, it was brought out, but the matter was one for Russian, not American, announcement.

In relation to the Quebec meeting and the fact that Russia has no representation here, the same authority said that again he could see no significance.

The questioning was occasioned by speculation here, as well as in dispatches from London, that Russia was replacing Litvinoff as a gesture of disapproval with the work of British-American leaders and also as a means of emphasizing her repeated demands for an invasion of western Europe.

The real purposes of Litvinoff's withdrawal, of course, could merely be guessed at. The possibilities mentioned in discussion here, outside the second front speculation, were mainly concerned with the theory that he was needed for some other assignment.

One suggestion was that Russia might be maneuvering to join in the next Allied war conference, at least to the extent of having a highly-placed observer present.

Litvinoff, with his record of British-American friendship and his long espousal of international collaboration to maintain peace, might be the man for the job.

There remained, too, a possibility that with the changing fortunes of war Russian foreign policy was on the threshold of some new development which lay within the field of Litvinoff's special skills.

No Week-End Gas In Pittsburgh

Pittsburgh, Aug. 23 (AP)—Motorists who happened to run out of gasoline yesterday were simply out of luck—there was no gasoline in Pittsburgh.

Almost without exception, filling stations were closed, with pumps, windows, and doors decorated with "no gas" signs. A check disclosed only one station to be open—and it had nothing to offer but oil, grease, water, air and soft drinks that weren't iced.

Saturday's trade, oil company officials said, wiped out supplies.

Deliveries to filling stations are scheduled today, but allotments of gasoline are not scheduled to arrive until late in the week, oil company officials said.

SCHOOL WORK IS MODERNIZED

Harrisburg, Aug. 23 (AP)—Pennsylvania school children going back to classrooms next month will find training for the war and post-war eras alongside the three R's in the commonwealth educational system.

"The Pennsylvania program," said Dr. Francis B. Haas, superintendent of Public Instruction, "will include provision for the most urgent needs for pre-induction training as outlined by the several branches of the armed forces."

Jobless Pay Is Greatly Reduced

Harrisburg, Aug. 23 (AP)—Only 13 per cent of Pennsylvania's cash outlay to help the needy now goes to unemployment relief recipients who in pre-war days made up the bulk of assistance rolls.

July expenditures totaled $5,104,000, a reduction of $55,000 from the previous month. Relief Secretary Samuel Y. Ramage reported. Only $688,000 went to unemployed while $4,463,000 or 87 per cent was spent for relief to aged, dependent children and the blind.

He also disclosed a reduction in administrative personnel in his department "as rapidly as the declining case load and effective service permit," with 556 persons or almost 15 per cent removed from jobs since start of the year.

Ickes Restores 53 Coal Mines

Washington, Aug. 23 (AP)—Interior Secretary Ickes today restored to private control mines of 53 companies which he had been operating as coal administrator for the government since May 1.

Some of the mines turned back had suffered an interruption in production by "work stoppages," Ickes said, indicating that they might have contracts with John Lewis' United Mine Workers. Department officials, however, would give no immediate clarification on this point.

Lewis, in ending the third general strike by the UMW in June, said that his miners were to work until October 31 only if the government retained control of the mines throughout that period.

The mines were returned in accordance with the Smith-Connally anti-strike act requirement that property seized by the government be returned within 60 days after restoration of "productive efficiency."

LEWIS WILL TESTIFY FOR WLB GROUP

Washington, Aug. 23 (AP)—Thomas Kennedy, quiet-spoken secretary-treasurer of the United Mine Workers of America, told his former colleagues on the War Labor Board (WLB) today that an increase of $1.30 a day for anthracite miners is fully justified and necessary to retain manpower.

Appearing before the board he quit last spring in disagreement with its policies, Kennedy said that "in an effort to effect a compromise basis upon which an agreement could be written the mine workers offered to settle for an 'overall' figure of $1.30 per day, or $1 per day 'net.'"

Washington, Aug. 23 (AP)—John L. Lewis accepted an invitation to appear before the War Labor Board today as that tribunal—fortified with a new financial club for dealing with defiant unions and employers—stepped into the anthracite wage dispute.

Spokesmen for Lewis said the head of the United Mine Workers would leave most of the talking to Thomas Kennedy, his secretary-treasurer, who quit the WLB last spring in disagreement with its policies.

WLB called the hearing on the plea of the anthracite operators that they had been unable to reach an agreement on a new contract after 20 weeks of negotiations in New York involving approximately 80,000 hard coal miners.

The hearing marked the first contact between Lewis and the board since President Roosevelt last week authorized WLB to apply "sanctions" to enforce compliance with WLB orders.

May Seek Increase

Unlike the soft coal miners, the anthracite workers have not received the full amount permitted under the Little Steel formula. They received increases in 1941 totaling 10 per cent. They are one of the few remaining large groups of workers who have not obtained a basic 15 per cent increase over January, 1941, levels. This is generally allowed by the board as a cost of living adjustment, and does not necessarily bar the way to a further increase if gross inequities can be shown.

Soft coal miners received 1941 increases of $1 to $1.40 a day, making the basic common labor rate uniform in the north and south at $7. Anthracite day labor rates are as low as $5.08. Anthracite operators, nevertheless, say that the labor costs of producing hard coal are substantially greater than soft coal, top for ton.

Operators say they offered 64 cents a day to the hard coal miners. The union's original demands were $2 a day increase and portal to portal pay, in addition to a number of secondary concessions.

10 PC. OF SMALL BUSINESSES IN 3-STATE AREA HAVE PERISHED

Washington, Aug. 23 (AP)—Ten per cent of the small business firms in eastern Pennsylvania, southern New Jersey and all of Delaware have perished since Pearl Harbor, says the U. S. Department of Commerce.

The department released the figures yesterday in a publication prepared by Leonard A. Drake, the department's regional business consultant.

The rate is not alarming, however, said the announcement. "The rate of exodus has not increased materially but the entrance of new establishments or replacements is far below the peacetime normal."

"Most small factories have been able to obtain enough work to keep alive but the majority could double or triple their output if given a chance. While plant owners claim they have received little help from the government to date, the smaller war plants corporation's new field setup promises to improve this situation."

"Retail outlets which have led the mortality parade include household equipment stores, radio and music shops, and the automobile trades such as gas stations, repair shops and dealerships. The toll has been considerable in 'mamma and papa' stores—the marginal sidewalk strip distributors of food, confectionery, knickknacks and whatnot."

Some Have Benefited
Small business concerns were defined by the announcement as manufacturing plants employing 100 persons or less, retail stores whose annual net sales are $50,000 or less, and services and other businesses whose annual net receipts are $50,000 or less.

Some small concerns have benefited greatly, others have suffered just as greatly by the war, the announcement continued, and included a chart of Pennsylvania establishments it said was indicative of the three-state area; restaurant sales were 32 per cent over last year, jewelry, 24 per cent; taprooms, 22 per cent; shoe stores, 15 per cent, and groceries not selling meats, 12 per cent.

On the decrease side of the ledger: Auto dealers, 17 per cent; filling stations, 22 per cent; home appliances, 42 per cent and furniture, 10 per cent.

THE LONG NIGHT

By Eleanor Atterburg

Chapter 9

Bette and Sue were both on duty the next mid-afternoon when they brought in Scott and his crew. To Bette the whole day had been like the last hours before an execution. Automatically, she had carried on her duties skillfully and well. Constantly, her anxiety for Scott absorbed her conscious attention. Six hours in an open rubber raft on the North Pacific! Exposed to freezing weather, soaked with icy water—

Time after time she caught back her imagination, tried to forbid its torturing her like this. And never quite succeeded.

When they finally carried him in, Bette forced herself to professional calm, acted quickly almost anticipating Dr. Farrell's orders as he made rapid and thorough examination.

She even managed a quiet, reassuring smile when Scott's eyes opened once, looked up inquiringly into hers for a brief second. Before they closed again, she was quite sure she'd seen a flicker of pleased relief.

"Nothing serious," Dr. Farrell pronounced. "Suffering from shock and exposure. Rest and sleep are what he needs now. Keep him warm."

Bette nodded. Two orderlies wheeled Scott away.

It wasn't until a little later when Bette had satisfied herself that Scott was comfortable, settled for the night, that Sue opened the door, slipped quietly into the sick room.

"I'll stay with him, Bette," she whispered as Bette adjusted the soft flowing night lamp.

Bette realized then that Sue had been gone for over an hour. "Where have you been?"

The younger girl shrugged. "Oh, out in the back yard. I heard them say they were bringing Scott in. I just couldn't bear to stay."

Puzzled Bette stared at her. "Why not?"

The girl's lovely dark eyes opened widely. "What if he'd been horribly wounded—smashed up, crippled, blinded or something?"

Sue's eyes travelled to the sleeping man in the narrow hospital bed. As if he felt her eyes, Scott stirred in his sleep.

"You don't need to stay," Bette whispered, moved toward the door. "Dr. Farrell said he only needed rest. He's in no danger."

Sue knelt beside the bed, laid her cool, slim hand on the big, tanned one that plucked restlessly at the bed cover. "I'll stay. I want to."

"But you're still on duty. You'll be needed," Bette reminded her crisply.

Sue didn't bother to turn her head. "You'll look after it won't you, darling?"

Indignation flared in Bette's weary brain. Why should she? After all—

The sleeping man stirred again, opened his eyes. "Darling, Darling, don't leave me. Please."

Sue bent over him, a lovely, hovering angel of mercy. "I won't, Scott. I'm here. I shan't leave you."

The little nod she gave Bette dismissed her with an unmistakable air

[of triumph.

Bette left the room swiftly.

She heard the radio in the hospital office as she walked down the hall. But her head and her heart were so full of furious rebellion that she didn't need the words until she saw Dr. Farrell's white face.

"What's the matter?" she demanded instantly.

"Some Japs broadcasting from a new radio station," he jerked his head toward the radio, went on buttoning himself into a clean white linen coat.

Bette instantly gave her attention to the smooth, clearly enunciated speech coming in over the air. In perfect, unaccented English.

"It is our desire to give you ample opportunity to surrender the forces at the base on A— island in accordance with the Japanese policy of the magnanimous victor. Therefore, we have set the time ten hours from now—at six o'clock tomorrow morning—as the last moment for complete surrender. If by that hour, you still do not have the good judgment to take advantage of Japan's generosity . . ."

The voice hesitated dramatically. Then, drawing the dagger, "Then your base will be blasted off the face of the earth, unmercifully, relentlessly. Be warned, Americans. Be wise."

There was more, but Bette turned away, furiously. "They surely don't expect us to wave the white flag—not really," she scoffed.

An orderly looked up from a magazine he was reading. "Sure. If we did, it might help them locate this base!" He grinned with superb confidence that Bette wanted, but couldn't share.

"They've located it, all right," Dr. Farrell said dryly. "We'll just hope our boys blast that new base before they get around to their 'zero' hour."

"Are they going to try?" Bette felt the same depressing anxiety that accompanied every flight. She'd have to get over that. In this war, it was kill or be killed.

"Listen!" The orderly jerked a thumb in the direction of the flying field.

"Won't the Nips be surprised when we interrupt that broadcast—for keeps!" The orderly grinned again. "Wish I were in on the fight."

And—with sudden insight—Bette realized how desperately Scott would want to be 'in on the fight' too. And in between two sighs, Betty suddenly found assurance in a turbulent war world. Only one thing mattered now. All the old values had been out-moded, out-grown. The value of human life was one of them. That she, Bette Stuart, should deliberately wish a man the opportunity to risk his life seemed incredible. Yet—it was so.

Tomato Crop In New Jersey Saved

Camden, N. J., Aug. 23 (AP)—Arrival of 600 soldiers on 72-hour leave from Fort Dix, New Jersey, to unload trucks of tomatoes at the Campbell Soup company plant was awaited today as the company reported that the crop apparently was saved.

Although tomato-filled trucks stretched seven miles from the plant at times last week, hundreds of civilians joined the battle against spoilage of the bumper crop and the company, operating on a Sunday for the second time in its history, turned away scores of volunteer workers yesterday.

"Not a tomato was spoiled," officials said, expressing a belief that the troops, who are to be replaced by another Fort Dix contingent Wednesday night, could handle the remainder of the tomatoes.

Harrisburg, Aug. 23 (AP)—Retired Saturday night after serving more than 30 consecutive years a member of the Harrisburg police force, William H. Romich kept a promise to remain active by going back to work for Uncle Sam today as a guard at the Middletown Air Depot.

10 gallons per unit. (Note: Most coupons worth several units.)

Your Best Salesman!

A salesman may be short or tall, fat or lean, but the boss measures his value by just two things: (1) the results he gets; (2) how much it costs to hire him.

The newspaper Classified Ads get results because the people who turn to them are already in the market for what you have to sell. Classified Ads meet with no sales "resistance." They waste no time ringing hostile door-bells.

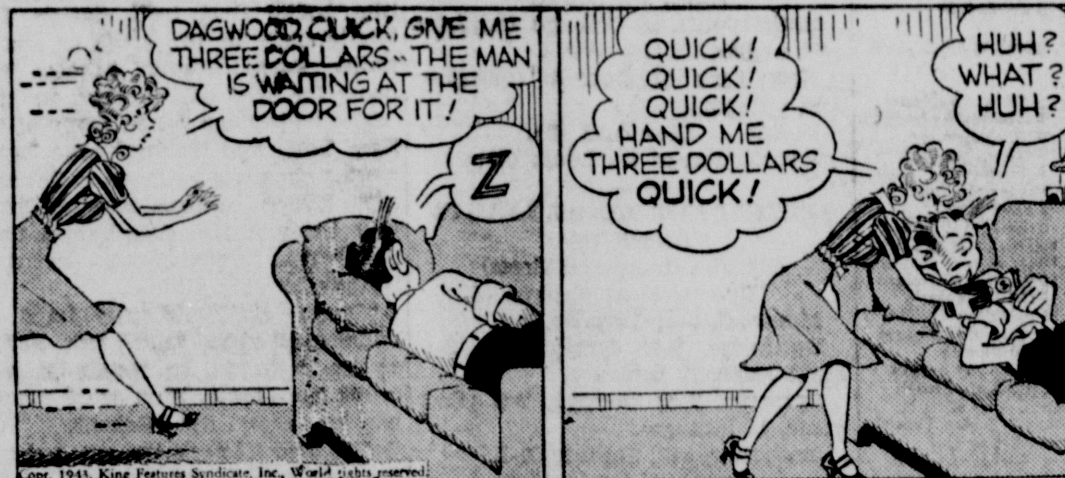

The newspaper Classified Ads get results cheaper, too. No other salesman we know of will call on as many people for so little.

Whatever you sell, the newspaper Classified Ads will sell more of it. Use them often.

RADIO PROGRAMS

New York, Aug. 23 (AP)—Looking to post-war days when television, now more or less dormant, is expected to renew its start to gain public acceptance, NBC today announced the formation of a special committee to study prospects.

Heading the group is John Royal, vice-president, and included is O. B. Hanson, vice-president and chief engineer of the network. The committee is to make technological studies and survey so far as possible when full-time telecasting is resumed.

After-the-war reception is expected to be considerably improved over that previously displayed in the regular service for home looking. For one thing, receivers will have larger images, with the development of self-contained projectors. Also the cost is expected to be lower.
